

Jan Šťovíček, Univerzita Karlova

Infinite combinatorics in homological algebra

Abstract: I will discuss certain methods in homological algebra which turned out very useful and which use or depend on set theory. Such methods include deconstruction techniques, Hunter's cardinal argument or Shelah's singular compactness. All these have been traditionally studied for module categories, but they very likely have much wider relevance.